Call for Tutorial Proposals

We would like to solicit proposals for tutorials to be held in conjunction with HIKM 2024. HIKM 2024 tutorials aim to provide a comprehensive overview of specific topics in health informatics. The tutorial topics should be provide cutting edge overview of a state-of-the-art field.

Tutorials are will be offered online via Zoom

The audience for HIKM tutorials consist of research students, practitioners and experienced researchers. Tutorials are sought for half-day (2-3 hours) offerings.

Proposals should be submitted by email to the Tutorial Chair Andrew Stranieri on a.stranieri@federation.edu.au in PDF format. Please include the following information:
- Short course/tutorial title
- Proposers' names, titles, affiliations and primary contact email
- Short bio for each organiser, including pointers to relevant publications
- Tutorial description that includes topics that will be covered, along with a brief outline
- Anticipated target audience and an indication of prerequisite knowledge or levels (eg introductory, intermediate, advanced)
- Planned materials (if any) to be distributed to attendees

Review Process

Tutorial proposals will be evaluated by a sub-committee of the Program Committee on the basis of their estimated benefit to the community. Factors to be considered include: relevance, timeliness, importance, and audience appeal; suitability for presentation in a half day format; past experience and qualifications of the instructors. Selection will also be based on the overall distribution of topics, expected attendance, and specialities of the intended audiences.

Budget & Registration

Tutorial proposers are expected to present the tutorial at no charge to participants. HIKM organisers will provide zoom rooms. Tutorial presenters will receive a HIKM Online registration (up to 2 per Tutorial).
